To Whom It May Concern:

Our family is writing concerning the care that our dear family member has received through the residential support services program. This program has truly been a blessing for Tammy as well as giving our family a sense of peace with having her away from home.

When the day came that my health wouldn't allow me to care for Tammy in our home any longer, the sense of fear was overwhelming. The thought of having to trust someone else with caring for her was not something I wanted to have to think about but knew that I had to.

We have been very pleased with the quality of care that Tammy has received. The staff has been very loving, supportive, caring, and a joy to work with. They are dedicated to these wonderful special individuals. The staff works hard to make the home clean and pleasant. The staff definitely made the transition for our family and Tammy much easier and less stressful on all involved.

We feel that these staff members should be recognized for their hard work and dedication. They should be given better benefits and pay so that these homes can be stable. Qualified and trained staff that can be more dedicated to these individuals is a must. These are the types of people that are true assets to these programs. As a family we would like to see the benefits improve so that the turn over in staff is minimal. Every time a change occurs it is hard on the house as a whole. Change is especially hard for special needs people. Why make their lives more complicated than it already is.

We appreciate your consideration in this matter.
